AWA Awarded a Veterinary Product Grant from the Banfield Foundation

February 8, 2017

Voorhees, NJ: The Animal Welfare Association (AWA) has been awarded a Veterinary Product Grant from the Banfield Foundation. This In-Kind Grant of 30 cases of Flea and Tick preventative will improve the lives of pets in the area. The flea and tick preventatives help pets remain safe from parasites and potential illness, including Lyme disease.

“We share a similar goal with the Banfield Foundation, to enhance the wellness of both pets and communities,” said Maya Richmond, Executive Director of AWA. “So, it’s a great feeling when we can come together and work towards this goal. The AWA is extremely thankful for the Banfield Foundation's donation.”

As part of AWA’s extensive veterinary outreach and support efforts, the products donated will not only be used for pets within AWA’s shelter but also for pets in Camden City. AWA's Vets on Wheels program works in underserved communities to deliver a variety of pet care outreach services. By going out into the community and offering free or low cost products and services, AWA is able to have a direct impact in areas where pet owners are unable to find affordable veterinary care.

About AWA

Animal Welfare Association, a private, non-profit, 501(c) 3 animal welfare organization, serves the people and animals of southern New Jersey. AWA is dedicated to eliminating animal suffering, promoting the importance of the human-animal bond, and improving the role of animals in the well-being of people. Through a variety of programs including adoptions, veterinary services, pet therapy, and humane education, in 2016 over 22,000 pets were served through AWA programming. AWA is South Jersey’s leader in progressive companion animal care.
